Who's Who In The Cast

JENNIFER BOYD MOON (Bride) is a veteran of the Seattle theatre scene, having appeared in such acclaimed productions as Cats 2: Grizabella's Revenge at Theatre Preposterous, Charles Nelson Reilly's new staging of Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Unitard, and the hit revival of A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Trauma Center. Her acclaimed cabaret show, Everything I Needed To Know About Life I Learned by Knocking People Down and Laughing at Them, is in its astonishing eighth year at the T.G.I. Friday's by the airport.

SCOTT O. MOORE (Groom) comes to Seattle after a long stint performing in the Chicago run of Sweeney Ted: The Demon Real Estate Developer of Michigan Avenue. After replacing Marc Singer in the touring production of Disney's musical romance/violent adventure, Beauty and the Beastmaster, he made a number of guest appearances: as The Guy Who Convulses and Dies on ER, as The Guy Who Gets Stabbed and Dies on Law and Order, and as The Guy Who Fervently Wishes These Cameras Hadn't Shown Up on COPS.

SUSIE LINDENBAUM (Supreme Being of Chickness) began her career on such hit soap operas as The Rich and the Powerful and The Wild and the Unlaundered, before making the leap to the big screen with her lead role in Hee-Haw: The Movie. That led to breakthrough performances in such films as Die Hard 8: Will You Please Just Die Already and Lethal Weapon 15: Hairpieces of Doom.

TYLER HAYES STILWILL (Henchman) made his television debut at the age of six in the beloved children's show The Adventures of Winky the Chain-Smoking Sewer Rat. In recent years, he has performed in the national touring production of Fiddler on a Hot Tin Roof, in the acclaimed one man show The Search for Signs of Intelligent Life in My Dirty Dishes, and as the voice of Mr. Puce in the new animated children's version of Reservoir Dogs.

DR. JENNY ROOKE (Supreme Being of Chickness) received her PhD the old fashioned way: by sending in cereal box tops. After extraordinary contributions to the burgeoning field of Muppetology, she abandoned her promising scientific career in order to pursue her real love: goat herding. After several unfortunate goat herding accidents, however, she turned to her next favorite love, song and dance, and has since appeared in such musicals as You're A Good Man, Calvin Coolidge and Annie Get Your Rocket Launcher.

NATHANIEL WARD (Henchman) is a renowned performer with the august Davenport, Iowa Shakespeare Festival and Monster Truck Pull. After star-making appearances in such classics as Much Ado About The Guy Who Broke In Downstairs and Hasn't Left Yet, A Midsummer Night's Run Across The County Line to Get Hooch Before The Likker Store Closes, and Hamlet 2: Horatio Strikes Back, he is pleased to be making his Seattle debut in a role that does not require him to hemorrhage gallons of pig's blood on stage.

GILAD ROSNER (Mime / Troublemaker) has had a long, illustrious career as a crooner and hooper, appearing in such films as Cannonball Run 9: Quest for Dignity and Singin' In The Acid Rain. His memorable stint as lead singer of Van Halen is only surpassed by his years of work as the beloved character Crackle in Kellogg's commercials. He can currently be seen on the heart-wrenching nighttime drama Full House as the naughty babysitter.

The Capitol Hill Arts Cooperative was created by reNaissance to provide a venue for collaboration, education, and experimentation. Within these walls expect to find performances and gatherings that build upon the collective strengths of participants to re-Create the space around you. Official opening in February.
